ARTension: Straight forward with...Emeka Okereke

18.April 2011, 7 pm.

"To tell Africa's stories, by Africans, through photography and inspiring artistic interventions."

Presentation and Talk about:

INVISIBLE BORDERS

Invisible Borders Trans-African Photographic Initiative was founded in 2009 and is an artists-led initiative which in itself is a product of the Invisible Borders Road Trip Photography Project organised and executed annually by as many as 10 Nigerian photographers. The project is trans-African in its orientation, and sees the participating artists collectively taking road trips across Africa to explore and participate in various photographic events, festival and exhibitions while engaging on a daily basis with the environment and the people encountered. The emphasis is primarily on the collective journey of the participating artists who, during their momentary stops in capital cities, create photographic works that often reflect their individual approach to engaging with local artists, art practitioners and the inhabitants.
